

International Association of Dental Traumatology

IADT Newsletter Volume 14- June 2019

1- Welcome from IADT Newsletter Editor

Contents:

- 1- Welcome from new IADT Newsletter Editor
- 2- 1st Chinese International Dental Traumatology Conference
- 3- World Congress 2020, Lisbon, Portugal
- 4- Membership
- 5- Photos
- 6- FaceBook snapshots

Newsletter Editor:

Bill Kahler
Australia

wyattkahler@bigpond.com

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

As the new IADT Newsletter Editor, I am looking forward to bringing you news about the activities of the IADT. I would ask all of you to help foster and grow the membership so encourage your colleagues to become Members like yourselves. The growing FaceBook membership attests to the interest in dental traumatology and it would be great to convert these followers on Social media to the benefits of collegiality that comes with full membership. Speaking for myself, I have had an interest in Dental Traumatology for many years and have had the privilege of working with people I consider giants in our field. Having been elected this year as a new Board member to the IADT I am now aware of much more that the IADT does in education; both the public with the SOS that has been translated into 37 languages and to organizing the World Congresses last year in San Diego, USA and our next World Congress in Lisbon, Portugal in 17-20th of June, 2020 (more below). The IADT is also co-supervising "The 1st Chinese International Dental Traumatology Conference Xi'an, China. IADT speakers at this conference are IADT President Dr Anne O'Connell, Past President Dr Nestor Cohenca, IADT President Elect Professor Liran Levin, the Editor of the Journal, Dental Traumatology Professor Paul Abbott and the Past Editor Dr Lars Andersson. Xi'an is an important cultural city in China and the English interpretation of the name of the city is "Western Peace".

There is much to be done for members of the IADT and the friendship and collegiality that is shared at these conferences we attend will result in new friendships and enriching memories for friends already formed. I hope to meet you all at many of these meetings.

With warm regards
Bill Kahler

2- 1st Chinese International Dental Traumatology Conference

The 1st Chinese International Dental Traumatology Conference
& the 4th Academic Annual Conference of SSE, CSA, 2019

Organizer: Society of Stomatological Emergency,
Chinese Stomatological Association (SSE,CSA)
Co-organizer: International Association of Dental Traumatology (IADT)

June 21 to 23, 2019, Xi'an, China

Welcome To Xi'an

Congress Info Program Schedule Tourism Contact

Xi'an Qujiang International Convention Center

3- World Congress in DT in Lisbon, Portugal in June 17–20, 2020

Lisbon is a bustling and exciting city, that boasts a wide choice of activities and fascinating tourist attractions. The city has a welcoming and liberal atmosphere, while still embracing its deep-rooted heritage and extensive history.

The Rossio Plaza in the heart of the city

Bring your walking shoes as the hills are steep

Se Cathedral in Alfama

The Miradouro de Santa Luzia viewpoint

5- Photos

IADT Board members prior to a meeting with the AAE Board

Joint IADT and AAE Board members in Montreal, Canada

IADT and Dental Trauma Guide Board members at the Copenhagen Trauma Symposium

I attended the American Association of Endodontist (AAE) meeting in Montreal and can attest to how successful these meetings are. Good discussions were had with the AAE Board about the Tooth SOS App. Of particular interest was the international flavour of the diverse membership of IADT and the work that has been done in making the App and other poster material available in 37 different languages.

The emphasis that IADT has on making this material freely available for the benefit of dental practitioners, schools, sporting clubs and others was emphasized.

At this meeting, Dr Anne O'Connell, President of IADT and a Paediatric Dentistry Specialist was able to give added insights to dental problems from her experiences. Everybody in attendance thought this was a successful meeting.

6- Snapshot from the FaceBook collection

Marc Semper shared a post.

Admin · April 9 at 10:57 PM

Safe Your Tooth in Thai!

Thanks to Prof. Phumisak Louwakul (Chiang Mai University, Thailand) the "Safe Your Tooth"-Poster is soon also available in Thai. After proof-reading by Juan Onetto the poster will be uploaded on our homepage. So, the poster will be available now in 37 languages.

Please feel free to print and distribute the following posters and Save a Tooth!

Publication for sale of these posters or any IADT website content requires IADT permission.

A higher resolution poster may be available. Please contact the IADT for high resolution "Save Your Tooth"-Poster at IADT@IADT-dentaltrauma.org. You are welcome to add a small logo of your Country flag, University or practice at the bottom right corner. Your logo can be the same size or smaller than the IADT logo.

<https://www.iadt-dentaltrauma.org/for-patients.html>

For patients - International Association for Dental Traumatology

For patients - International Association for Dental Traumatology

International Association of Dental Traumatology

MEMBERS LOGIN

MEMBERS LOGIN

Home About us For patients For professionals Join & Renew Meetings

IADT 2019 WCDT 2020 Recordings Uploaded to IADT Member Page

Dear Dr. Semper,

We are delighted to announce that the following video recordings have been uploaded to your IADT Member page under the Continuing Education Icon. Free access to these recordings are a benefit of IADT membership. They can be used for personal education, lectures, reports, and as a reference.*

*Publication, distribution or upload to alternate websites is strictly prohibited.

Dr. Geoffrey Heithersay, WCDT 2018

Dr. Nestor Cohenca, WCDT 2018

Take a moment, log on to your IADT Member Page, and revisit the extraordinary program from the 2018 San Diego World Congress on Dental Traumatology!

IADT
 4425 Cass Street, Suite A
 San Diego, CA 92109